Re: Presentation of the Annual Report of the Commission on Children and Youth

Mr. I. Austin Heyman, chairperson, stated that the commission was pleased to have this first meeting with the Board of Education and hoped that there would be many more. He said that on September 24 they would be meeting with the county executive and on September 30 with the County Council. He explained that the commission had been created through legislative action to advise the County Council and Board of Education regarding services which supported children and youth.

Mr. Heyman commented that this past year marked a major turning point in Montgomery County because after a decade of feuding the two halves of government had worked together to address the question of substance use. He reported that the commission had also addressed the problem of teenage pregnancy and that report had been provided to the Board. He indicated that their drug and alcohol paper was in its final draft, and he stated that as far as drug abuse was concerned the problem was a community one. It will only be solved when there is a community view to do so. As far as the schools were concerned, the commission felt it was important to have an adult in the school to whom the children could relate. They felt that strengthening the counseling function was very important, and they thought new ways had to be found for teachers to relate to students more.

Mr. Heyman stated that another example of cooperative efforts related to RLCA. He said there was still a need for FY 1982 funding for an additional cottage. He indicated that the commission was interested in the questions of early childhood care and day care, and the commission would be participating in the Board’s forum.

Ms. Tatyana Moss said that they were given the mandate to do their study on teenage pregnancy from the MCPS task force, the county executive, and the Council on Adolescents. She said that they had set themselves some definite goals and wanted to emphasize the importance of shared community responsibility. They wanted to encourage a comprehensive approach to the delivery of services. She said they had received data from the Health Department and received information from the schools and Home Instruction. They surveyed by questionnaire the 30 agencies that gave services to this population. They studied some models of services in other communities and visited five schools. Their basic findings from the data they could get showed that in the last ten years the births to teenagers had not increased. They hovered around 7.5 percent of total births. She explained that there was no mandate to report pregnancies so they could not really get the full picture on pregnancies. There was, however, a reporting of abortions. They found that while the population of teenagers with children did not increase the population that terminated the pregnancies more than doubled in percentages.

Ms. Moss stated that their recommendations addressed two parts of the problem. The first was the delivery of services and were they adequate. The second was in the area of preventive education. She said that they were interested in the reduction of these figures. They recommended that MCPS ensure that every student took a comprehensive course in health education by the ninth grade, provide a child development and parenting course for junior high school, and identify and make accessible at all times a trained staff person in junior and senior high schools.

Dr. Greenblatt inquired about the recommendation to provide a child development and parenting course in the junior high school. Ms. Lila Trachtenberg explained that the purpose of this was to familiarize students with the parenting responsibility before they reached an age when they might be parents. This might be a preventive for their becoming parents too soon. Dr. Greenblatt stated that she was concerned about their solution because the parents of junior high school children had responsibilities in this area. Ms. Trachtenberg replied that the parents had responsibility in the whole area of preventive education, but they felt that perhaps it should be a shared responsibility.

Mrs. Zappone pointed out that the commission had looked at the New Futures School in Albuquerque, New Mexico; however, that program was not among their recommendations. Ms. Moss replied that they did not make specific recommendations because transportation problems in Montgomery County precluded their recommending any one model at this point. Mrs. Zappone said that some of the problems the commission had pointed out were the lack of infant care so that girls could go back to school and finish their education. She said the school system's primary concern was the education of the mother. Their report indicated that there were over 500 girls in this category and MCPS could provide that kind of service to that population and provide an infant care at the facility which would eliminate that problem. However, this was not one of the recommendations. Ms. Moss replied that this was a recommendation under consideration in the model program. She explained that they did not specifically recommend one program but rather pointed out the needs.

Mr. Ewing thought the had done a good job of documenting the problem. He noted there was a strong recommendation to establish a better basis for determining the scope of the problem. He wondered if agencies supplying the data were being cooperative, and he asked if there was anything the school system could do in a positive way to assist in the process to make sure in the future that the data were made available. Mr. Charles Short replied that when the commission met with the county executive he agreed to assign the Health Systems Planning Agency to collect the data. He reported that they had a commitment from the superintendent to assist in collecting the data. Ms. Trachtenberg added that there was one area that made collection of data difficult. She said that the withdrawal forms did not list pregnancy as a reason for withdrawing.

Mr. Barse asked if the members of the commission believed there was any role of the public schools in offering moral guidance to students in how to respond to human sexuality. Ms. Moss replied that they believed a health education program should have parenting, physical information, emotional information, and responsibilities and that such a health program was best given this broad a base. Mr. Barse said that he saw no recommendation regarding moral guidance of young people as to how they should behave. He felt it should be a major part of their recommendations, and he considered it to be a major flaw in their report.

Mrs. Wallace noted that the recommendation was for health education for every ninth grader. She wondered whether they had taken into account the problems of the six-period day and their going to 9-12 high schools. If they included health education as a requirement that would be in direct opposition to their recommendation that it not displace other courses or electives. Ms. Moss replied that they had not found the proper answer and thought it was an issue that had to be considered just as any other curriculum issue had to be considered. Dr. Shaw pointed out that the report stated "by the ninth grade." Mrs. Wallace wondered why they had chosen the ninth grade. Ms. Trachtenberg said they felt by the ninth grade most children were sexually aware and a large number were sexually active.

Ms. Williams asked if the commission had found a concentration of pregnancies in terms of race, socioeconomic status, or geographic areas. Ms. Moss replied that they did not have this information. Mr. Heyman reported that they had asked various groups for comments on the report and would share this information with the Board and the county executive. The superintendent indicated that the staff was currently looking at the entire health curriculum. The Board would receive proposals in the early spring or late winter.

Dr. Greenblatt thanked the commission for their report. She asked whether the student automatically went on Home Instruction because it was her understanding that the students were still present in the school. She wondered whether there was glamour added to the fact that the girl had something growing in her body and it was a new experience. She also wondered whether it would be better to have these girls on home instruction. Ms. Moss remarked that they had all seen newspaper publicity about acceptance of unwed mothers. She said that she could not speak to whether or not there was glamour in these situations.

Mrs. Wallace remarked that she found the report very general and said she would really want to know what the commission considered to be a comprehensive recommendation. The superintendent asked the commission for any additional specifics they could supply the Board. Dr. Shaw thanked the commission for their report.

Re: Leland/Kensington Feasibility Study

The superintendent reported that sometime ago they made a proposal to conduct a study of what ought to happen in the Leland/Kensington area of the county. They had considered the possibility of modernizing Leland or Kensington, building a new facility on the Kensington site, or continuing the use of Leland with no capital improvements. He pointed out that the Board had also received an information item on Western Junior High School which was somewhat related to this topic.

Mr. Benjamin Elliott presented slides of the two schools and provided the Board with a narrative overview of all the options. Mr. Barse inquired about which alternative was deficient in not meeting standards. Mr. Elliott replied that there were two gymnasiums at Kensington but they were not large enough. The Leland gym was fine; however, the media center at Leland was one classroom too small. In both schools there would be some deficiencies in classroom space. He pointed out that in a new building everything would be designed to meet requirements. Mr. Barse said that he had reached the conclusion that only two alternatives, 3 (new school) and 3A (retaining a portion of Kensington) met the requirements, and Mr. Elliott indicated that he was correct.

Dr. Greenblatt asked about parking for 100 cars at Leland and whether or not that was an excessive number. Dr. Philip Rohr, director of the Division of Construction and Capital Projects, replied that at a junior high school they would normally have spaces for 100 to 125 cars. Dr. Shaw noted that at Kensington they had changed the whole entrance to the building from one side to another. Mr. Elliott replied that this was correct, but they would still retain the original entrance.

Mrs. Wallace remarked that this was one of the most comprehensive documents she had seen in a long time, and she felt that it would require a lot of Board discussion in the near future. She commended the architect and staff on a job well done. Mrs. Zappone asked why the media center could not have a ramp because the Kensington site was not confined as far as space was concerned. Mr. Elliott replied that it was possible to have a ramp but the terrain made it very difficult to provide.

Mr. Ewing recalled that at an earlier session the Board had asked some questions about the impact on racial balance, and he was not clear how this would affect the Rosemary Hills Cluster. Dr. George Fisher, director of the Department of Educational Facilities Planning and Development, replied that the two questions were (1) what was the long-term cluster definition going to be and (2) were they going to try to achieve a continuous articulation pattern for the school. If the cluster were to stay the same, the Kensington site was on the extreme northern periphery of the cluster. He felt they needed to have firm definitions before deciding which site would serve them better. Mrs. Wallace noted that the paper they had received from the superintendent stated that Somerset would no longer feed into Leland. Dr. Fisher explained that at present Somerset was made up of students from Somerset and Rock Creek Forest. Fifteen percent of the students were from Rock Creek Forest and they articulated into Leland. The Somerset children did not go to Leland.

Mr. Barse commended the superintendent for the process of decision making that he had suggested in his memorandum of August 12. He noted that the final decision would be made in March or April as part of the master planning process. The superintendent reported that they had been using the Kensington Junior High School building for joint occupants, but they had been advised by the fire marshal that after this year he would probably close them down for joint occupancy. Mr. William Wilder, director of the Department of School Facilities, explained that to be in conformance with the fire codes they would have to invest substantial sums of money in the building. He thought they might be able to occupy the building under a grandfather clause, but at present there were no MCPS children in the building. Dr. Shaw pointed out that it was going to be close to a year before they made direct moves on the solution of this. He felt that they might need the Kensington building as a safety valve. The superintendent agreed to find out whether or not they could use the building as a school.

Mr. Ewing inquired about a timetable for a new or renovated facility. Dr. Rohr replied that planning could occur in 1982 with construction in 1983. The superintendent said it was his intention to carry planning funds in the budget request. Dr. Greenblatt asked for an estimate of the value of either property if the county were to sell it.

Re: Additional Teaching Positions

Mr. Ewing moved approval of the superintendent's proposed resolution, and Mrs. Spencer seconded the motion:

WHEREAS, Enrollment is now expected to be higher on September 30 than projected; and

Re: Board Member Comments

1. Mrs. Wallace stated that she had reviewed the information item on the fiscal status report. She requested a dollar-for-dollar accounting for Category 15 expenditures and what the needs were because she had grave problems in that area.

2. Mrs. Zappone reported that the Metropolitan Area Boards met on Wednesday, September 17, and their fall meeting would be at the Springfield Hilton on October 24. The topic for the discussion would be vocational education. She said that she would be attending the Urban/Suburban Conference out of town on that date and hoped that other Board members could participate in the October 24 meeting of MABE. The spring meeting would be held in Montgomery County.

3. Mrs. Zappone said that she had attended the AASA Legislative Conference and would leave her notes in the Board member office.

4. Mrs. Zappone indicated that the Hispanic Coalition banquet had been held on September 20 and was a very successful event.

5. In regard to in-school suspensions, Miss Williams said she would be interested in visiting one of the centers and finding out how it was working and how it tied in with unexcused absences.

6. Dr. Greenblatt reported that when she went to New York to testify on the bilingual regulations the Montgomery County position was greatly outnumbered by those who had specific interests. She said that Prince George's County was there at the same time and strongly opposed the regulations. She suggested that other Maryland jurisdictions be contacted and urged to write the Department of Education.

Re: New Business

Mrs. Zappone commented that she had been concerned about foreign language courses because students rarely had the opportunity to use the language conversationally. She asked the superintendent to consider piloting two two-week summer camps in French and Spanish for high school students at the Smith Center.
