Re: BOARD/SUPERINTENDENT COMMENTS

Ms. Ervin commented on attending graduations, especially the special schools and the obstacles those students have overcome on the way to a diploma. It was evident to her that the support of the Board is apparent.

Mr. Romero read the following prepared statement: “After much careful consideration, I have decided not to seek reelection to a second term on the Board of Education. Eleven years ago, my business partner and I established an architectural firm – Rktects, Inc. Over the past three years, we have been fortunate to have a marked increase in business, and the practice now demands far more of my time and attention than I could devote to serving a second term on the Board of Education. I am very proud of the work the Board of Education has done over the past four years. I am honored to have served as a Board member. The implementation of the Board’s vision and action plan have brought about many positive changes for Montgomery County Public Schools. I am particularly proud of the educational achievements of our younger students in our ESOL community. We have welcomed diversity and have worked hard to ensure success for all of our students. I hope with my decision not to seek reelection, more candidates will emerge from District 1. Our county will benefit from a competitive field of candidates that engage in a meaningful discussion of the work that has taken place and of the road ahead. I remain hopeful that our community will be able to select a candidate who embraces the Board’s vision and demonstrates a commitment to continuing the work that has started.”

Mr. Romero remarked that he attended graduations, and it is one of the most enjoyable functions of a Board member. The Longview School graduation was very emotional, and the dedication and high expectations of special education staff are commendable.

Mrs. O’Neill joined in her comments about graduations and agreed that they are the best part of being a Board member. She also had an opportunity to participate in a visit from the President of Chile. She is the first female president in all of Latin America. She visited local schools, and she was very gracious and articulate. Also, she attended the Washington Metropolitan Basketball Hall of Fame where Coach Chris Lun from Walt Whitman High School won Boys’ Basketball Coach of the Year for the entire area. Finally, she attended the 20th Anniversary of Interages.

Ms. Cox commented that graduations were wonderful, and she noted that Mr. Shea announced his retirement after graduations. Ms. Cox asked that a recognition of Vietnamese scholars take place at the June 26, 2006, Board meeting. Also, she presented an award to Winston Churchill High School’s orchestra at the John F. Kennedy for the Performing Arts. Finally, she commended staff on the excellent Annual Report.

Mrs. Navarro echoed her colleagues regarding graduations since it is a snapshot of the excellent work done in high schools. She attended an amazing event at Wheaton High School where there was a recognition of high-achieving Latino students. Furthermore, she represented the Board at the African-American Festival of Academic Excellence, and that was another opportunity to congratulate students for their achievements.

Mr. Johnson remarked that he attended his graduation, and it was exciting to hand out the diplomas and make a short speech. His last school visit will be to Robert Frost Middle School. He represented the Board at a Congressional Simulated Hearing where the Constitution was analyzed. Finally, he attended his last SGA meeting and met the new leaders.

Dr. Haughey announced that with great reluctance he would not be able to serve another term on the Board of Education, and he would not be campaigning.

Dr. Weast reported that the 2006 Annual Report to the Community has been published and will be mailed to all MCPS parents. Employees will receive copies through the Pony mail. Copies also will be distributed to community leaders and other stakeholders. This new publication provides a comprehensive overview of the accomplishments of students, administrators, teachers, support staff, and the Board of Education during this past year.

Dr. Weast said 14 high school seniors participated in the Superintendent’s Leadership Program this year.  The year-long program selects students based on outstanding leadership, academic excellence, and maturity within their schools and communities. The curriculum is comparable to a college-level course, and students receive two honors credits for participation. Students attend regular school classes in the morning and report for work at their internships in the afternoon. During the program, students meet with industry executives, attend seminars on current workplace issues, write a research thesis, and keep a journal of their experiences. A total of 88 students have participated in the program, which began in 2000.

Dr. Weast reported that MCPS had received two awards – Energy Conservation and Financial Reporting. MCPS has been recognized with a state award from the Maryland Energy Administration for outstanding energy conservation efforts. The school system was honored for its Resource Conservation Plan. This comprehensive plan for superior energy performance throughout the school system was noted to have clear objectives, specific goals, and an extensive action plan for implementation. Also, MCPS has received the Governmental Finance Officers Association Certificate of Achievement for Excellence in Financial Reporting for the 2005 Comprehensive Annual Financial Report. This award is the highest form of recognition in governmental accounting and financial reporting.

Re: UPDATE ON PROFESSIONAL LEARNING COMMUNITIES INSTITUTE

Dr. Weast invited the following people to the table: Ms. Darlene Merry, associate superintendent for the office of organizational development; Mr. Jamie Virga, director, Professional Learning Communities Institute; and Ms. Joan Mory, instructional specialist, Professional Learning Communities Institute.

The Professional Learning Communities Institute (PLCI) is an innovative professional development initiative designed to increase student achievement in selected elementary schools by building the school improvement capacity of each school’s leadership team. Through participation in the PLCI, leadership team members, including administrators, teachers, supporting services staff, and parents, develop the skills and knowledge that will enable them to create and sustain a high-performing professional learning community in their schools. PLCI participants review case studies, engage in reflective discussions, examine their own practices, and plan for improvement. Teams are provided with structured professional development, ongoing support from the PLCI staff, and enhanced school improvement funding. As a result of these experiences, teams identify needs, plan strategies, and implement action plans to improve achievement for all students. The discussion focuses on the collaborative development of the PLCI, the inaugural implementation of the program during the 2005–2006 school year, and the next steps for expanding the impact of the initiative.

Re: DISCUSSION

Ms. Cox asked if the team members ask thought-provoking questions about instruction when they return to their schools to teach their colleagues. Mr. Virga explained that they talk about the best characteristics of instruction, and some schools want to use the survey instrument at the beginning of the school year. Ms. Merry added that there has to be performance measures to determine success, what was learned, if it was implemented, and if student achievement increased.

Ms. Cox pointed out that the questions asked the leadership teams from the schools about their perceptions of the school environment and their colleagues. Is the idea to have them observe the change in others? Mr. Porter pointed out that the question “can all children learn,” causes reflection and self-evaluation.

Mr. Romero thought the timing of the study is based on the capacity that has been built over the past several years, and now the PLCI is going to the local level. Dr. Weast replied that “closing the gap” has to have a different approach with a case study of three successful schools. What was learned was that the right questions had to be asked – can all children learn, is it everyone’s responsibility, and is school for student learning? Now the intent is to replicate what has been learned, change the belief system of teachers, and become output oriented to determine if it makes a difference in student learning.

Mrs. Navarro thought there was value in honestly answering the questions to self-evaluate and internalize the mission of the school system. She wanted to know if the question “can all students learn” was connected to the diversity of the school system. Staff replied that the Broad Acres Elementary School case study provided knowledge that can be shared with other schools. After the study was presented, the strategies were replicated with the whole staff based on expectations.

Ms. Ervin thought language and the way it is used are important. The term “diversity” is suppose to be good, but it has connotations and is used as a cop out. She would like another descriptor for use by the school system. Dr. Lacey replied that is the power of the Broad Acres case study. The PLCI provides the shared information, collaboration, and outreach to emphasize that all students can learn.

Ms. Ervin asked if the success of a school is tied to the leader. Dr. Weast replied that this experiment is being watched to determine the effectiveness of trained staff or leadership. This project is to promote collaboration to ascertain the most cogent learning model. Training will be required for staff.

Mr. Romero thought there were other conversations, and people want their children to attend a diverse school so that people can come together. Dr. Weast stated that education of children in diverse areas is backed up with study circles to deal with issues such as race, immigration, and poverty.

Dr. Weast pointed out that everyone must ascertain if staff is asking the right questions. If those questions are answered, student achievement will be affected. This is a long-term journey to deal with race, poverty, and immigration.
Dr. Weast invited the following people to the table: Ms. Ginny Gong, executive director, Community Use of Public Facilities; Mr. Robert Muller, chairman of the Interagency Coordinating Board (ICB); and Meredith Wellington, vice chairman of the ICB. The chair explained that since 1978, the ICB for Community Use of Public Facilities (CUPF) has helped to make public facilities accessible and affordable year round for community activities and to bring services to county residents at public school sites. The ICB, whose membership includes decision-makers from the various county stakeholder agencies, formulates policies that equitably balance the needs of community use with those of the school system's instructional programs.

With the guidance of the ICB's advisory committees, an appropriate balance of user fees and reimbursements to the school system for shared use is maintained. CUPF operates solely as an enterprise fund, supported totally by fees from community users and no taxpayer dollars. In addition to reimbursing the school system for hours of use, utilities, and staff costs, monies are also expended to support other initiatives such as the After-school Activities Program, modern sound access, security cameras, security gates, field renovations, etc. The ICB also reimburses the county's general fund for the office's administrative costs.

What do these ICB policies mean to the citizens of Montgomery County? When implemented by CUPF, they become the key to a variety of exciting community activities in schools and other public facilities. Before and after the school bell rings and throughout the weekend, from morning to late evening, these activities continue in the majority of the 190 schools (indoors and outdoors), libraries, closed schools and other public facilities. Private and public organizations, businesses, and individuals are all welcome to use the county's public schools and facilities.

Ms. Wellington reported that the ICB has been thinking about two major issues: (1) balance the mandate to cover all costs as an enterprise fund, but keep fees affordable, and (2) adult soccer games on county fields. The ICB is moving to a system of reviewing fees every two years to reflect the actual costs, such as for utilities. A task force will look at the scheduling of fields.

Ms. Gong reported that CUPF has streamlined the process through technology. All elementary and middle schools are scheduled by CUPF, and all schools are online with CUPF. There is online submission for facility requests.

Ms. Cox noted that she had not received any complaints about the ICB, and she appreciated the collaboration with the school system.
Mrs. O'Neill thought it was important to educate the public on the use of facilities, especially the use of fields. She asked if PTAs received information to encourage collaboration with CUPF. Ms. Gong stated that she was included in the MCCPTA meeting, and she uses the PTA newsletters in the fall.

Ms. Ervin remarked that the County Council added funds for after-school programs, and she asked how that would complicate the scheduling of facilities. Ms. Gong replied that there is shared occupancy before and after school. If there is space available, there can be joint occupancy. She assumed that the funding by the Council will go to organizations and in turn the organizations will request space.

Dr. Weast noted that CUPF has increased its operational proficiency, and he thought scheduling would become more difficult because of the demand for facilities. Mr. Muller thought the training is a must since organizations continually turn over, and groups need to be educated on the costs of keeping the facilities open to them. Ms. Wellington suggested that artificial turf may be the answer for fields.

Dr. Haughey asked about the fees based on costs for construction and utilities. Dr. Weast replied that different schools have different pricing, but the facilities are the cheapest rentals in the area. Should the school system subsidize the use of facilities or should it be the county? This dilemma needs to be addressed.

Ms. Navarro asked what would be the priority for a parent group. Would it have to be sponsored by the school? Ms. Gong stated that if the group is not sponsored by the PTA or school, then it uses the space as a community group with appropriate costs.

Ms. Navarro knew of groups that are reimbursed through the county for the use of schools. How prevalent is that? Ms. Gong replied that if a group has county funding through a grant, those funds should be used to pay for the facilities used by the group.
