Mrs. O’Neill asked the superintendent to ascertain how much Montgomery County history is included in the curriculum.

Mr. Abrams stated that the Policy Committee at its next meeting will review issues related to early entrance to kindergarten. Hopefully, there will be clarity to the process, standards, and communicated to the public.

Re: BOARD/SUPERINTENDENT COMMENTS

Dr. Weast commented that Raul Ortiz, named Montgomery County Teacher of the Year last April, has been selected as one of seven finalists for the 2007–2008 Maryland Teacher of the Year. State Superintendent of Schools Nancy Grasmick announced the selection of the finalists today. Second, the Class of 2007 earned $91 million worth of scholarships, which is very impressive. Third, Dr. Weast thanked Mr. Bowers, Mr. Doody, and Ms. DeGraba for the Association of School Business Officials Award. Finally, he noted that the ACT scores have been announced, which is an academic test. More students in Montgomery County are taking the test, and they did very well.

Mrs. O’Neill mentioned that there are so few ACT testing centers in Montgomery County that many students were denied testing. Many schools will accept the ACT in lieu of the SAT and SAT2. More students should be encouraged to take the ACT.
Mr. Barclay commented on the staff at Broad Acres Elementary School and the community walk he did with them to meet the community. The students were excited to see their teachers and most students are ready to get back to back.

Mr. Moskowitz was pleased that the data points in the Strategic Plan had added ACT participation and performance in addition to SAT. Students have to feel safe in class in order to be able to learn. He attended a drill at Clarksburg High School with a scenario involving police, fire, and rescue personnel. It is great that the county plans and refines reactions to dangerous situations.

Dr. Docca attended the summer school graduation. There were very different stories, but they were very happy to graduate. Most were going to Montgomery College for classes.

Mrs. O’Neill noted that staff is back to work, sports teams are practicing, and the students need to finish summer reading. Tomorrow, there will be a press conference on pedestrian safety.

Mrs. Brandman noted that she represented the Board regarding the expansion of full-day Head Start in ten schools. It is exciting to offer more time to the younger children to learn and grow.

Re:  READINESS FOR OPENING SCHOOLS

Dr. Weast encouraged staff and parents to work together for the academic success of all students. Central office staff has monitored many projects during the summer to ensure that everything is ready for students.

Mr. Larry Bowers, chief operating officer, briefed the Board on activities of staff, including opening 300,033 square feet of new space and over 400,000 square feet has been modernized. Twenty-five schools will have projects ongoing this coming year. Thirteen more projects have been bid for completion this coming year. Also, there were 150 systemic capital projects for roof, heating/air conditioning, ADA, asbestos abatement, and bathroom renovations, among other projects. In Human Resources, 800 teachers, 200 supporting services employees, and 150 administrators have been hired. There is a new Financial Management System, thousands of orders have been processed, 9,000 computers ordered and distributed, Pinnacle grade book is in all high schools, and TechMod in 43 schools. Applications for meals in different languages, residency requirements, and vaccinations for students are in process.

Ms. Cox inquired about training for school staff so that they can assess threats in school and the community. Mr. Bowers stated that MCPS is working with the police and homeland security.

Dr. Freda Lacey, deputy superintendent, reported that this summer staff has worked on many issues, including the Administrative and Supervisory meeting which served as a kick-off for the school year, continue the development of rigorous programs, the addition of a chief academic officer who oversees the Department of Shared Accountability and designs and organizes all initiatives, middle school reform, full-day Head Start, grading and reporting, High School Assessments, extended learning opportunities, special education initiatives, professional development, Wellness Center at Northwood High School, hours-based staffing to deliver special education services, and High School + will be expanded.

Re: UPDATE—CAREER LATTICE FOR TEACHERS

Dr. Weast invited the following people to the table: Mr. Larry A. Bowers, chief operating officer; Ms. Susan F. Marks, associate superintendent, Office of Human Resources; Ms. Bonnie Cullison, president, Montgomery County Education Association; and Mr. Christopher W. Lloyd, computer/media literacy teacher, team leader, John T. Baker Middle School.

The Montgomery County Public Schools (MCPS) and the Montgomery County Education Association (MCEA) are committed to providing a high-quality teacher in every classroom by focusing on the MCPS Strategic Plan, Our Call to Action: Pursuit of Excellence, Goal 4, Create a Positive Work Environment in a Self-Renewing Organization; and Board of Education Policy GAA, Positive Work Environment in a Self-Renewing Organization. These commitments emphasize the importance of having structures and processes in place to attract, recruit, hire, mentor, develop, evaluate, recognize, and retain high-performing teachers. Therefore, it is essential that MCPS put processes and structures in place to keep the best teachers in our classrooms.

Through the Board of Education’s commitment to professional growth—from career entry to retirement—MCPS has created a Teacher Professional Growth System (Teacher PGS) that provides supports for the stages throughout an educator’s career. Members of the Career Lattice Work Group have defined three stages—Induction, Skillful Teacher, and Leadership in Teaching. These stages are sequential, but not entirely discrete, and represent career choices for the educator.

The Career Lattice provides educators with opportunities to make a difference in student achievement beyond their classroom, as well as an incentive to work in high-need schools. Participants in the Career Lattice assume greater levels of responsibility for improving student learning, both inside and outside the classroom.

The Career Lattice framework includes definitions of leadership responsibilities; processes for application, identification, and evaluation of a lead teacher; and a compensation structure that is aligned to leadership responsibilities. A Career Lattice differs from a Career Ladder in that it identifies teacher leadership roles within the teacher bargaining unit that encourage accomplished teachers to remain in the classroom. The Career Lattice also differs from merit pay in that all teachers who choose to attain lead teacher status have opportunities to be compensated for additional duties and responsibilities.

Re: DISCUSSION

Mr. Abrams inquired about how this differs from the consulting teachers. Ms. Cullison replied that the consulting teacher is one of two pieces, and the other is to support leadership with projects in the high needs schools.

Mr. Abrams noted that the Career Lattice in effect creates an alternative promotion approach. Under the classic approach, once a person reached a certain level, they moved into administration. With this approach, a teacher can achieve a higher status but remain in the classroom. Ms. Cullison replied that this is not a promotion in the lattice, but colleagues working with colleagues working for student achievement. A teacher has gone through a self-reflective process and identified by 14 people as a lead teacher. Ms. Marks stated that it gives teachers alternatives about their careers.

Mr. Abrams asked if a lead teacher could move in and out of that status or is there a finite range of this corp. Is it open ended with an expanding base? Ms. Cullison responded that the panel will discuss whether it is open ended or to serve a three term.

Mr. Moskowitz stated he thought the term lattice was very appropriate instead of a ladder since the teachers were not climbing out of the teaching profession. How will the panel know that a teacher is doing all that is expected to reach the status of lead teacher? Mr. Lloyd replied that questions will be taken from the National Board process which provides a framework for reflecting on practice.

Mr. Moskowitz though that high school teachers could encourage students to provide input. Mr. Lloyd replied that the teacher could take input and reflect on how that can improve instruction.
Ms. Cox wanted to know why teachers thought this was a solution. In defining the problem, she assumed there was research that affects recruitment and retention or a survey among teachers that want this type of lattice. Ms. Cullison remarked that the changing demographics of the teaching population and recognizes that teachers are not going into this field as a long-term commitment. Through research, the panel asked what are they seeking, and they want challenge and responsibility with power over their day-to-day activities. Ms. Cox assumed if this was a balance between MCPS projects and those in schools to support the school improvement plan.

Mrs. O’Neill thought it was exciting because the teachers that inspire students should remain where they are the most effective.

Mr. Barclay asked Mr. Lloyd about his comment that the lead teachers would have the opportunity to work with more resilient students. What is the vision to impact achievement? Mr. Lloyd used the term resilient student in place of at-risk students because it is a self fulfilling prophetically. There are teachers in the building with strategies to help those students that struggle every day with the core curriculum. Based on the school improvement plan, teachers can come together to develop a strategy to help students.

Mr. Barclay inquired about the impact of this system on recruitment. Ms. Marks thought the lead teacher position will build a pool of outstanding educators.
