Compensatory/Recovery Services for Students with Disabilities

Office of Teaching, Learning, and Schools–Special Education

Fall 2021
Outcomes

By the end of this session, participants will have:

- reviewed the definition of Compensatory Recovery Services (CRS);
- identified the legal requirements for CRS;
- reviewed the process for holding CRS meetings;
- reviewed the process for analyzing data to make CRS eligibility decisions; and
- reviewed the coordination of CRS.
Legal Foundations
What are CRS?

- CRS are for students who received special education and related services, but who due to the Covid-19 related closures and virtual learning, may not have made the expected amount of progress on their Individualized Education Program.
- CRS must be provided outside of the school day.
Legal Requirements for CRS

- The U.S. Department of Education requires school systems nationwide to consider the negative effects of pandemic related school closures on students with disabilities.
- The pandemic, resulting closures of schools and the sudden required shift to virtual learning, has created challenges for students with disabilities, such as:
  - a delay in providing services,
  - difficulty fully implementing IEPs, and
  - regression (or loss) of skills that students previously learned.
Who Determines CRS?

- School teams work with parents/guardians to make a determination on whether CRS are required.

- The school team members include:
  - case manager
  - related service providers (i.e., speech therapist, occupational therapist, physical therapist, etc.) if applicable
  - counselor, if applicable
  - transition support teacher, if applicable
  - student, if applicable
  - principal, assistant principal or a designee
  - central office representative, if applicable
In What Venue(s) Can the CRS Decision be Determined?

CRS can be determined:

- in a written agreement with Montgomery County Public Schools (MCPS)
  - in collaborative discussions with the parents/guardians, case manager, and school based team members a decision can be made about CRS and documented on the Prior Written Notice (PWN)
- in an IEP team meeting
  - in which the discussion and decision are documented in the PWN

The PWN explains the decisions made by the team.
Factors to Consider in the CRS Process

- All students with disabilities in prekindergarten (pre-K) through high school, including students in nonpublic schools, who attended MCPS during the COVID-19 school closures from March 16, 2020, through June 30, 2021 will be considered for CRS eligibility.

- “Move In” students are students who are new to MCPS for the 2021-2022 school year:
  - MCPS will work with the parent/guardian and previous school system to gather information and make a decision regarding CRS
  - MCPS will review and discuss any decisions made by a previous school system.

- The Parent/Guardian CRS letter will be sent by school principals to all parents/guardians with students for whom CRS are being considered.

- Your input and feedback regarding your student’s successes and challenges is important to determining eligibility for CRS.
Factors to Consider in the CRS Process

- Regression or inability to make progress
- Inability to provide services or accommodations during virtual instruction
- Missing services
- Delay in notifying the parents/guardians of revision or modifications to the IEP
- Delay in scheduling a meeting to address the parents/guardians’ disagreement with the revisions or modifications to the IEP
Factors to Consider in the CRS Process

Data points to be analyzed for all students include:

- Report card grades, if applicable
- Learning Skill grades, if applicable
- Progress on IEP goals
- Virtual service logs
- Related service provider logs
- Student work samples
- Informal observations
- Teacher anecdotal notes
- Tier III intervention data
- Evidence of Learning data
- Parent/Guardian Guiding Questions
- Appendix C

Service Coordination
Coordination of Services

MCPS has created multiple pathways to provide CRS. These pathways include:

● School-managed services
● CRS by appointment
● The George B. Thomas Saturday School
● High Dosage Tutoring
School Managed: pre-K—12

School-based providers may deliver CRS services to students with disabilities as follows:

Locations for delivery
- Students service school: before/after school
- Regional Service Center: weekends
- Public Library: evenings and weekends
- Public Space for Community-based learning: weekends or school breaks

Subject/student needs:
- Academic and social foundations (pre-K)
- Skills group cohorts (pre-K)
- Counseling group cohorts (pre-K)
- Mathematics/Literacy
- Behavior
- Social-emotional learning (SEL)
- Counseling
- Related Services
- Transition/Travel Training
Request for Central Office CRS

If school-managed CRS is not an option, The students case manager will complete a request for central office CRS to access the following options.

- CRS by appointment
- The George B. Thomas Saturday School
- Summer 2022 Delivery
CRS by Appointment

In this delivery model, students are matched with a provider through the CRS office. This option is available to all students who are eligible to receive CRS.

- Regional service center
- Public area (i.e., library)
- Virtually
Regional Service Center

There are four regionally located service centers—Little Bennett Elementary School, Rock Terrace School, and Eastern and Julius West middle schools.

To access this option, the provider will complete and the following steps:

● Contact the family for whom they are providing CRS;

● Identify the service center that is most convenient and or appropriate to access;

● Look at the calendar that is designated for that site and block off the times and rooms you will be using to deliver CRS;

● When agreed upon, the provider will enter their name and the student’s name and ID into the chosen time slot. If you are scheduling multiple sessions, The provider will identify those appointment slots and reserve the times as appropriate; and

● If the student requires transportation, a Google form will be submitted with the necessary information (Most of the fields on the form match what is entered and seen on a Student Transportation Action Request form.) Once entered, the information will go directly to our contacts in transportation and to the CRS office. Requests must be made 10 days in advance of the transportation needed. If this is a request for multiple weekends, indicate that on the request form.
