February 2020

Hello Glen Haven Families!

This month the fourth graders got to join the SCB classes in art. They were working on representations of Van Gogh's "Lilypads" and "Starry Night". The 4th-grade students are becoming experts on knowing when and how to help and when to let the students in SCB attempt things on their own. The amount of genuine love from all of the kids in the room is a sight to see.

It teaches us empathy which means we learn how to understand how the other kids feel.

- Darian

Today made me feel amazing because it was a lot of fun. It is good to have the 4th graders help them.

- Jamison

I really liked dancing at the end with Savior. He didn't want to dance at first but then he didn't want us to leave

- Marleyaa

At the end, we were dancing in the circle and he was having fun too.

- Morgan

It is important for the kids in SCB so they know that we are their friends and we can look out for them and help them. We have to cherish this opportunity because it is a once in a lifetime experience.

- Jonathan

It is important for the 4th graders because it helps us learn more about the kids in SCB and how we can help them.

Today was pretty fun when we got to help them paint in art class. It made me feel happy to help. It lets the kids with disabilities bond with kids that they don't get to see a lot
