This Academy prepares students for careers in television production, Internet-based media, and broadcast reporting. Students in this Academy produce the programming for CAV-TV, an award-winning television station, work with career journalists, and intern at local and national media outlets.

JFK is the only PBS NewsHour Student Reporting Lab in Montgomery County. The PBS NewsHour Student Reporting Lab program connects our students to local PBS stations and news professionals in the community to produce original, student-generated video reports. The students who participate in the project learn how to think critically, problem-solve, synthesize information, and investigate important topics.
